The Secretary confirmed there was quorum present for the meeting.

Board members will welcome Dr. Peggy DeJong later in the meeting as the incoming President of the Medical Staff Association.

David O’Toole welcomed and introduced Renate Ilse who has joined the KHSC executive team on an interim basis as a Vice President with oversight responsibilities in the areas of critical care, cardiac, and inpatient surgical units.
A number of calendar events were provided in the written report of the CEO. The Chair encouraged Board members to attend the upcoming University Hospitals Kingston Foundation Celebration of Giving scheduled for Wednesday, June 12, at 1700 hours at St. Lawrence College. Following the event, members of the community will recognize the contributions of Denise Cumming who has recently retired.

At the May Finance and Audit Committee meeting, members discussed in detail the accomplishments over the last year confirming that IT projects are tracking positively; that discussions continue with the Ministry relating to Phase 2 redevelopment; and KHSC continues to be in a positive financial position. Of concern to the committee, however, relates to higher activity volumes now exceeding funding allocations. With respect to successes this past quarter, Troy Jones confirmed that there has been a reduction in vacancies and that management was pleased with the high response rate to the recent engagement survey. Committee members have also expressed concern about high patient volumes and patient flow.
The indicators monitored by the Governance Committee remain on track and no concerns were expressed at the May committee meeting. On June 1, 2019, the Hotel Dieu Research Institute assets and liabilities were transferred to the KGHRI.

David O'Toole
Chair
Background

This note provides an update on activities at the HDH and KGH sites that relate to our mission and annual corporate plan since our April meetings. As always, I welcome feedback and suggestions in terms of content and focus for these regular updates.

Current State

1. 2019 Ontario Budget

As reported in my May report, Bill 100, the Protecting What Matters Most Act (Budget Measures), 2019, has confirmed the following “signature initiatives” outlined in the 2019 Budget including:

- Creating the new Ontario Childcare Access and Relief from Expenses (CARE) tax credit.
- Empowering municipalities to make rules about where alcohol can be consumed in public spaces, such as parks, and retroactively pausing a wine tax increase that was scheduled for April 1, 2019.
- Introducing the Premier and Minister’s Accountability Guarantee, which would require both the Premier and the Minister of Finance to give up 10 per cent of their premier and ministerial salaries for failing to make public financial and economic reports by the legislated deadline.
- Eliminating the Estate Administration Tax for taxable estates with assets of $50,000 or less and reducing administration tax for larger taxable estates.
- Making the auto insurance experience simpler for consumers by facilitating the use of electronic communications and electronic commerce by insurance companies.
- Requiring Ontario to prepare an annual debt burden reduction strategy to responsibly manage its debt, which is the largest of any sub-national jurisdiction in the world, while maintaining the high-quality services that people expect and deserve - both now and for future generations.
- Advancing a Digital First strategy that will deliver simpler, faster and better services across Ontario by eliminating outdated processes and lowering administrative burdens and costs.
- Implementing a transparency measure at the gas pump that will make clear the true cost of the federal carbon tax on Ontario drivers, families and businesses.
Protecting titles for financial planners and financial advisors in Ontario by introducing a new framework for the financial services industry to require that individuals using the financial planner and financial advisor titles have an appropriate credential.

In addition to these legislative measures above, the government remains committed to the creation of 15,000 new long-term care beds over the next five years as well as upgrading 15,000 older long-term care beds, introducing a new dental program for low-income seniors who lack benefits, and investing an additional $384 million in hospitals and an additional $267 million in home and community care.

As well, a recent Globe and Mail article confirmed that Premier Doug Ford is going to cancel a series of controversial retroactive funding cuts to municipalities – in the areas of public health, childcare and paramedic services.

2. OHA Large Hospitals Discussion with Hospital CEOs

On Monday, June 10, I will be attending a meeting in Toronto with large hospital CEOs/COOs and CFOs regarding the 2019 Ontario Budget impacts and next steps. The session will allow for an exchange of ideas on innovative strategies that organizations are using to address funding shortfalls, how hospitals will approach internal and external communications, if realignment in services and programs is expected. As I have to be in Toronto on Sunday attending meetings, I will participate in the OHA meeting on Monday and then return to Kingston later in the day arriving and will miss the first 45 minutes of the board meeting.

3. Ontario Hospital Sector Benefits Best Practices Study Released

The Ontario Hospital Association recently released the Ontario Hospital Sector Benefits Best Practices Study to member hospitals. Last September, the OHA Board initiated this review to address concerns from hospitals around the sustainability and viability of long-term disability, extended health, dental and life insurance benefits. Extensive consultation with members and the engagement of Aon Hewitt to analyze the data collected has resulted in the above reference report which Sandra Carlton and her team are reviewing. Starting next month, the OHA will be holding a series of regional member consultations with senior HR leadership to discuss the report in detail and to map out next steps.

4. Council of Academic Hospitals of Ontario & OHA to Integrate

As previously reported, the Ontario Hospital Association and Council of Academic Hospitals of Ontario are moving forward with an integration plan. Sundeep Sodhi, OHA’s Director of Strategy and Member Relations has been cross-appointed on a temporary basis as Vice President at CAHO to oversee the organization’s day-to-day activities and the implementation of the integration proposal. I remain confident, along with CAHO Council and the OHA Board that the research and academic priorities of Ontario hospitals will be well served within the Ontario Hospital Association.

5. Mohawk Medbuy Corporation and Plexxus – Amalgamation Discussions

In a recent bulletin, Mohawk Medbuy and Plexxus – two of Ontario’s largest public health care supply chain shared services organizations, have announced the first step in a proposed amalgamation with the execution of a Letter of Intent to explore opportunities to support the government’s desire for a centralized supply chain system across the broader public sector. At present, these organizations oversee 60% of the health care spend in Ontario.
6. Research Update – June 2019

Breathing easier through respiratory research

Innovative translational work in breathing disorders and related conditions by clinician-scientists in Kingston Health Sciences Centre is transforming best practices in clinical treatment and disease management, and is generating promising new approaches, treatments and care pathways for these debilitating, often fatal conditions.

Asthma: Dr. Diane Lougheed is Medical Director of the Asthma Research Unit (KGH site) and Director of the Adult Cystic Fibrosis Clinic (Hotel Dieu site). In asthma, she researches the mechanisms of shortness of breath and cough. Dr. Lougheed has authored Canadian asthma guidelines, and studies how best to implement best practices to improve patient care and outcomes. She has led the way in championing asthma education as a way of helping patients manage their disease. Her combined ‘medication-education’ approach has made a significant impact on patients’ quality of life, and it has led to established “care maps” for treating patients with acute asthma in emergency departments and family physicians’ offices across the province.

Dr. Lougheed has also created an online portal, www.asthmalife.ca, that helps patients and their health-care providers manage their asthma, and provides information and participation opportunities in asthma research. Her group is also currently taking part in the Undiagnosed COPD and Asthma in the Population (UCAP) study, the first randomized controlled trial to determine whether early treatment of previously undiagnosed airflow obstruction will improve patients’ health outcomes. KHSC is one of five Ontario centres taking part in this CIHR-funded, five-year national study.

Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disorder: Dr. Denis O'Donnell, Director of the Respiratory Investigation Unit (KGH site) and Dr. Alberto Neder, Director of The Laboratory of Clinical Exercise Physiology (KGH site) and Co-Director of the Pulmonary Function Lab (HDH site), are world-leading researchers in Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disorder, a spectrum of respiratory diseases that include bronchitis and emphysema. Their research targets the mechanisms of breathlessness by monitoring patients as they exercise, giving them unique insights into how the heart, lungs, brain, blood and muscles work together under the stress of physical activity.

Drs. O'Donnell and Neder were the first to identify and study mild and early COPD, and their groundbreaking work is showing how even in its early stages, COPD affects not just airways, but also brain signaling and blood flow, destroying lung structure and damaging the heart. They're now collaborating in a study with the Robarts Research Institute in London, ON to image the tiny blood vessels in the lungs. Their aim is to find ways to prevent this structural damage in the disease’s early stages. Several of their other studies are looking at the effectiveness of novel tests and treatments for combined heart-lung disease.

An important part of their work is improving patients’ quality of life by providing them with coping techniques and muscle training to manage their breathlessness, and by encouraging physical activity to increase their endurance.

Lung Cancer: Research by Dr. Geneviève Digby, Clinician Lead for Diagnostic Assessment Programs, focuses on improving the timeliness and quality of care provided to patients with lung cancer in the Kingston region. In collaboration with Oncology colleagues, Dr. Digby launched the Lung Diagnostic Assessment Program (HDH site), where patients with a new lung cancer diagnosis are assessed and managed by multiple specialists at the same visit, including respirologists, medical and radiation oncologists, and thoracic surgeons. Patients, caregivers, and physicians report a high satisfaction with this care model, which has resulted in a 10-day faster oncology assessment, and decreased time to first cancer treatment by 25 days.

Further work is focusing on Standardized Care Pathways, leading to faster time to diagnosis, and collaborative efforts with Radiology are leading to earlier identification of patients needing further work-up for suspected lung cancer.

Idiopathic Pulmonary Fibrosis: Research by respirologist Dr. Onofre Moran-Mendoza, Director of the Interstitial Lung Disease Program (HDH site), focuses on idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis (IPF), a chronic disease of unknown cause, characterized by scar tissue (fibrosis) within the lungs. IPF is one of the most common forms of interstitial lung disease and has a median survival of 3-5 years from the time of diagnosis.

Because of his expertise and access to this subset of patients, Dr. Moran-Mendoza has been engaged by Hoffmann-La Roche in three multicentre clinical trials looking at disease course and outcomes (published in the Canadian Journal of Respiratory, Critical Care and Sleep Medicine), medication, and disease characteristics. Some of the results of these studies will be presented at the European Respiratory Congress in Madrid, Spain in September, 2019.

Patients with IPF are enrolled from the Interstitial Lung Disease Clinic at the HDH site and this centre has achieved the highest and fastest enrolment rates in all 3 multicentre studies in which it has participated.

14. Brockville General Hospital Expansion Update

Deputy Premier and Health Minister Christine Elliott, along with Minister of Infrastructure Monte McNaughton, and Steve Clark, Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing, were recently in Brockville to celebrate the new patient tower under construction having reached its “topping off point” in the project. The five-story, 175,000 square foot additional will allow the transfer from BGH’s Garden Street Site to a single campus on Charles Street. The project will allow for an increase of 22 beds and new programs slated for the tower include inpatient mental health, complex continuing care, palliative care, rehabilitation and restorative care.

15. Legislative & Regulatory Update

The Ontario Court of Appeal has affirmed a lower court decision which rules that Ontario physicians must give an “effective referral” for medical services which clash with physicians’ religious beliefs. Ontario’s highest court was asked to review a College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario policy requirement that an “effective referral” must be made when a physician opposes providing specific medical services including medical assistance in dying, abortion and other reproductive health services, due to religious beliefs. While the court held that the referral requirement does not infringe upon a physician’s religious freedom, the benefits to the public outweigh the cost to physicians under the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. The court ultimately noted that, based on the CPSO policy requirements, a physician can either ask their staff to handle the referral process or choose to specialize in a type of medicine where these issues are less frequent.

The provincial government has introduced legislation to introduce the Foundations for Promoting and Protecting Mental Health and Addictions Services Act. If passed, this Act would establish a Mental Health and Addictions Centre of Excellence within Ontario Health and support the province’s participation in the national class action lawsuit British Columbia launched last year against more than 40 opioid manufacturers and wholesalers. Within Ontario Health, the proposed Mental Health and Addictions Centre of Excellence would: establish a central point of accountability and oversight for mental health and addictions care; be responsible for standardizing and monitoring the quality and delivery of services and clinical care across the province to provide a better and more consistent patient experience; and to provide support and resources to Ontario Health Teams which would help patients and their families to navigate the system.

Schedule 1 of Bill 116 would require the Minister of Health to develop a mental health and addictions strategy which recognizes that mental health and addictions care is a core component of an integrated health care system. The proposed legislation would also require that Ontario Health establish and maintain a Mental Health and Addictions Centre of Excellence to carry out the following functions:

- Put into operation the mental health and addictions strategy;
- Develop clinical, quality and service standards for mental health and addictions;
- Monitor metrics related to the performance of the mental health and addictions system;
- Provide resources and support to health service providers, integrated care delivery systems and others related to mental health and addictions; and
Perform any other functions that the Minister may direct.

Schedule 2 of Bill 116 would allow the province of Ontario to sue opioid manufacturers and wholesalers for alleged wrongdoing in order to recover past, present and future health care costs due to opioid-related disease, injury or illness. The proposed legislation is intended to support Ontario’s participation in a national class action lawsuit British Columbia launched last year against more than 40 opioid manufacturers and wholesalers.

Legislation was introduced on June 5, 2019, that will enable the government to manage public sector compensation growth and, if passed, provide for reasonable wage increases. The Protecting a Sustainable Public Sector for Future Generations Act, 2019, will not impede the collective bargaining process or existing collective agreements but allow for time-limited requirements on new compensation increases for unionized and non-unionized employees. A recent communique from government states that the proposed legislation will not impose wage freezes, wage rollbacks or result in public sector job losses. I am scheduled to participate on an OHA members’ teleconference on Friday, June 7, and will provide a verbal update at Monday’s board meeting.

Briefing Note

Topic of Report: CEO Report – June Board & MAC meetings
In closing this month’s report, I want to take this opportunity to recognize the tremendous contributions of Dr. Roger Deeley as KHSC’s Vice President Health Sciences Research and as Vice Dean Research in the Faculty of Health Sciences at Queen’s. Roger accepted the invitation to serve as Vice President of Research Development in January 2007 and, since that time, he has elevated the research presence and profile within the academic communities. Roger’s vision and determination (and I understand a lot of turf protection for 10,000 square feet of space on Connell 4) resulted in the opening of the W.J. Henderson Centre for Patient-Oriented Research. His advocacy and support for SEAMO clinical scientists as well as his work to support an integrated research enterprise with Queen’s are to be commended. Thank you, Roger, for your leadership and dedication to support research which will continue to result in better patient outcomes for generations to come.

Respectfully submitted

Dr. David R. Pichora
President and Chief Executive Officer
