

Healthy Female? Participate in health research!

- Participate in a research study evaluating the response of healthy women and women who are carriers of hemophilia to the drug desmopressin.
- If you are a female between the ages of 18-50, are in good general health, have no history of vascular disease and are not taking an oral contraceptive pill, you may be eligible.
- Participation involves blood draws, treatment with one standard dose of desmopressin and approximately five hours of time. The study will take place in the Inherited Bleeding Disorders office at Kingston General Hospital.
- Participants will be compensated $100 ($20 for food and parking during the study, $80 compensation for time).
- Participants must agree to follow instructions for fluid restriction for 24 hours after the trial

If you are interested in participating, please contact the Clinical and Molecular Hemostasis Research Group at:

613 533-6000 ext: 75223